PEOPLE IN NEED SLOVAKIA

People in Need Slovakia (PIN SK) has been working in Moldova, predominantly in the South of the country, since 2008. Our primary focus is supporting good governance and civil society by strengthening capacities and transparency of local authorities and civil society actors, like youth CSOs, activists, local initiatives, and media outlets. Furthermore, we respond to urgent humanitarian needs emerging in the country. We aim to share Slovakia's transition experience in the process of democratic reforms. Our support in Moldova since then has amounted to over 1.8 million EUR.

THE REPUBLIC OF MOLDOVA - CONTEXT

Political Context

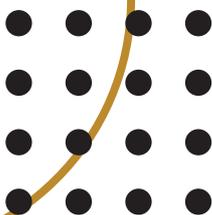

Moldova applied to join the EU in March 2022 and was granted the status of a candidate country. Within the Moldovan society, this led to increased tensions. Keeping in mind that in the country, there is also Transnistria, a region with a special status, where a peaceful conflict settlement is being attempted so that Moldova maintains sovereignty and territorial integrity.

People, Culture, and Civil Society

Being a relatively young state, Moldova is in the process of strengthening its state institutions. The country is often seen as politically and economically torn between two conflicting directions, the eastern and the western one. In addition, since diverse ethnic and religious groups have been living together in the same territories for centuries, Moldova is attempting to become an inclusive society. Currently, its civil society scene can be characterized by emerging localized grassroots initiatives, civil activism and CSOs, which bring about tangible changes for communities.

Economic and Humanitarian Crisis

Moldova remains one of the least prosperous countries in Europe, with 21–32% of population at risk of poverty. Energy crisis, war in Ukraine and the consequent refugee influx expose Moldova to further socio-economic shocks, making vulnerable people, on the one hand, more reliant on the state support and the country, on the other, increasingly dependent on imports, including energy supplies, mainly from Romania, Ukraine and Russia. Moreover, as a result of the war, Moldova has become one of the primary arrival destinations for refugees mainly from southern Ukraine. As of 20th of December 2022, Moldova has hosted 99,524 refugees.

My name is Daniela. I am a student of Theoretical Lyceum of Grigore Vieru, in the Chioselia Rusa village, Gagauzia. I am very grateful for the provided equipment, printer, and most importantly the dictionaries. We need to learn something new all the time and communicate in foreign languages. Nowadays, they are the main tool for becoming closer with people of other nationalities.

INTERVENTION TIMELINE

- From 2008 to 2017 PIN SK has carried out various projects in support of independent media in Moldova, farmers, civil society, community building, civic activism and also youth civic participation.

What I liked the most was the inclusive consultation process during the development of the electronic Household Registry. The system is truly tailored to our needs and thus sustainable. Every comment our team made, every important detail was taken into consideration and has been included into the system by the developer.

OUR APPROACH

Ensure the best results through:

- Participatory planning and context awareness
- Working in partnership with experienced and trusted local NGOs
- Building-up on experience and lessons transmitted by PIN SK and its partners

Ensure sustainability through:

- Building cooperation with local authorities and civil society actors
- Tailored trainings and capacity building
- Regular consultations with stakeholders
- Continuous additional support of local municipalities in the South of Moldova throughout 2017–2022

One-year-long projects can hardly ensure sustainability. On the contrary, together with PIN SK, we supported two municipalities during 3–5 years. Thanks to this, they succeeded in opening and furnishing client centres, establishing voting systems, improving informatization, and now they are discussing further needs of digitalisation. These processes have been very important, as we can now see a finished cycle.
